Committee Arranges Special Pageant for Saturday Afternoon, Sept. 19.

BEST OF PROGRAMMES.

Only Five Days Left in Which to Elect King and Queen.

Attention having been called to the fact that the Mardi Gras Carnival at Coney Island occurs after the schools epen, and that 650,000 children would miss it all unless special provision is made for them, the committee has demake Saturday, Sept. 19, the last day of the festival, Children's Day. There will be a specially arranged parade for the young folks, as well as the regular pageant of King Carnival and the Age of Progress, all in the afternoon. All the bands of music will be in the parade, the same as at night, and there will be no pageant that night, the parade for the young folks taking its place, and starting at 2.30 o'clock.

With only five days left for hustling, the campaigners are doing great "stunts" for their respective candidates for King and Queen of the Isle of Joy, and although Alderman Lewis M. Potter holds his lead, Alfred Katz, James Fazio and Sunny Brook Levy reduced his lead a little in to-day's poll, and a comparatively new candidate, Joseph M. Schenck, who is a showman at Coney Island and at Fort George, and was nominated by the Independent Englander Dramatic and Pleasure Club, of No. 172 East One Hundred and Sixteenth street, is climbing to the top.

Sent Up to Fifth Place. Mr. Schenck stands fifth in the race
